Bonded Nylon

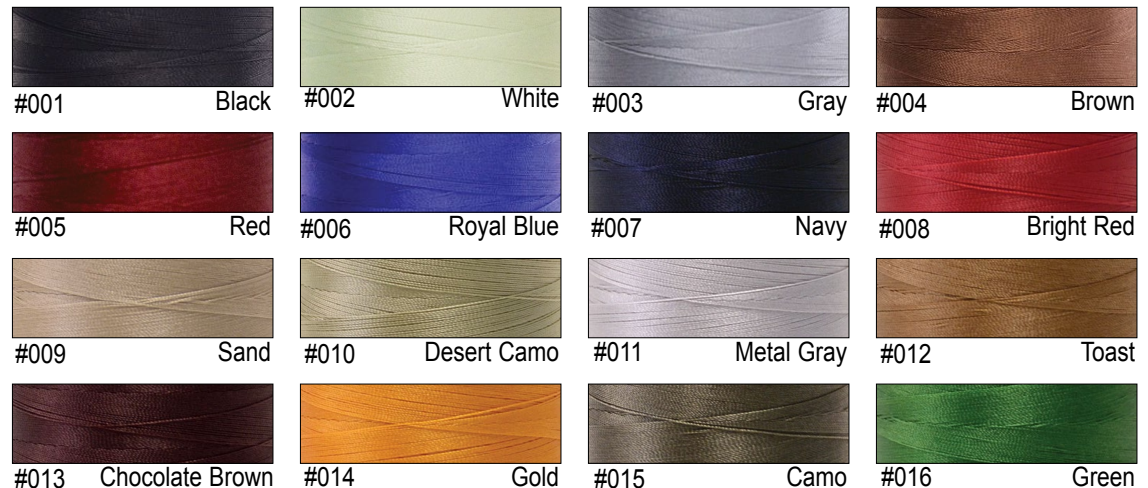

Bonded Nylon is the popular choice to use when stitching upholstery, leather, automotive interiors, heavy fabrics and more.

Superior's Bonded Nylon™ is Nylon 6,6 (sometimes referred to as Nylon 66). Nylon 6,6 is stronger and has a higher heat tolerance than regular Nylon. The bonding agent which coats the Nylon 6,6 fibers give this thread added strength and reduces friction at the needle resulting in smoother stitches.

- #46/2-ply 7 oz cone 4,375 yds. Diameter = .0094” Tensile Strength = 8lbs.
- #69/3-ply 1lb cone 6,015 yds. Diameter = .0115” Tensile Strength = 11 lbs.
- #92/3-ply 1lb cone 4,484 yds. Diameter = .0133” Tensile Strength = 15 lbs.
- #138/3-ply 1lb cone 2,953 yds. Diameter = .0163” Tensile Strength = 22 lbs.
- #207/3-ply 1lb cone 1,925 yds. Diameter = .0200” Tensile Strength = 32 lbs.
- #277/3-ply 1lb cone 1,422 yds. Diameter = .0231” Tensile Strength = 45 lbs.
- Extremely strong due to bonding agent added during processing.
- Nylon 6,6 fiber is stronger and has higher heat resistance than standard Nylon threads.
- Excellent chemical and mildew resistance.
- Standard go-to thread in the upholstery industry.
- For outdoor applications, we recommend using Superior's Solar Guard Thread™ bonded polyester thread.
